THE DAPPLE MARE

An ancient Legend, versified and diversified. BY JOHN G. SAXE.

Once on a time," as ancient tales declare, There lived a farmer to a quiet dell In Massachusetts; but exactly where, Or when, is really more than I can tell-Breapt that, quite above the public bounty,

So lived within his means and Bristol county. By rationt labor and unceasing care, He earned, and so enjoyed, his daily bread; Contented always with his frugal fare, Ambition to be rich ne'er vexed his head; And thus, unknown to envy, want, or woulth.

He flourished long in comfort, peace and health. The gentle partner of his bumble lot. The joy and jewel of his wedded life, Discharged the duties of his peaceful cot,

Like a true woman and a faithful wife. Her mind improved by thought and useful read-Good manners and nine children showed he Agriculture.

WINTERING CALVES. Calves should have loose stables, or stalls, to run in during the winter, with a little yard or paddock for exercise out of doors in fair weather, and plenty of air always Good soft hay, a few on at a pull a day for each, or an equal quantity of corn, oats, or barley meal, and in mild weather a quart of sliced roots is their best food. In very cold weather, roots do calves-such is our experiencemore hurt than good. They are cold and watery, and scour them. In mild weather, roots supply the place of green food, and we consider them good for that only, in our Northern climate.

If calves get lousy, rub a little soft grease, mixed with a sprinkling of Scotch snuff, ou the affected parts, thoroughly to the skin and the lice will feave at once. If you have not the snuff, grease alone will do .-This is effectual, and the only remedy we have applied for years. Tobacco we do not like. It often sickens the calves, and is not so certain a cure as the grease .-Keep the calves warm, dry and clean, and they will come out in the spring as bright as larks.

WINTERING COLTS A snug shed or stable is best for wintering colts, provided they be halter-broke, which they should be before winter sets in. They will eat all sorts of coarse food, but should have a little grain or meal, say a pint to a quart a day according to their size and age. They should, if convenient, run out a part of the day. They love to forage on a cattle dung heap, and pick out the waste litter. Let them have all they want of it, as it is healthy variety for them. A dry pasture, when snow is off the ground, is a good change for them also. We have wintered many colts in our farming, and found that nothing got through the season easier than they .-Their hair gets long and sometimes rough No matter, there is a close fur under it, and it keeps them dry and warm, and they are all the better in the spring. Enough to eat, with good shelter, is all they want to keep them healthy and growing. But they should not run out with the cattle, as they are liable to get hooked, while they, in turn, drive the cattle from their food. Every one to his own kind in the farm-yard, as in other appropriate places.

WINTERING LAMBS .- The same food and treatment applied to calves will succeed equally with lambs. If they get ticks upon them, Scotch snuff distributed along the back, by opening the wool and rubbing it well in, will destroy the ticks. Do not crowd too many lambs together, and separate the strong from the weak. All animals are selfish, and have no sympathy for their inferiors. The larger, of whatever kind, will overrun the smaller, drive them from their food, and starve them out alto-

Old or weakly sheep may be wintered in the same stables or sheds with lambs; for, if the old sheep be larger and stronger, the lambs are more vigorous, and can better dodge about them for their food. They all require fresh air, and plenty of it. Dry cold never hurts a sheep, but rains in win-Whispered to the lad, "My boy, you ought to ter are frequently injurious, particularly if of open-wooled varieties, as they soak to the skin and give them severe colds. A severe snow storm, if dry, is less hurtful than a warm rain, and a sleet is worse than both together .- Exchange.

> PLASTER OF PARIS .- We have frequently recommended the liberal use of Plaster of Paris on our farms and gardens. Every farmer and gardener should have a supply on hand, to meet the many uses to which it may be put. Mr. George Trowbridge, of Camden, N. Y., concludes a long article on the constitution of arable soils, and the use of plaster, in the following manner :

1. That the atmosphere is a constant source of food for plants. 2. That the most available agent for securing the benefits of this food for plants is 3. That, viewed in this light, the value of plaster in agriculture can hardly be overrated.

4. That it may be safely recommended for general use on all soils containing a portion of fermentative matters, and not so compact or wet as to prevent the process of exhalation or absorption.

5 That it should always be applied to the surface of the soil, or at least within the influence of the atmosphere.

6. That it should be sown at an early date in the season, before the period of the most abundant dews and exhalations have

7. That it should always accompany manures used as a top-dressing, or only slightly buried in the soil.

8 That it should be liberally employed about our barn-yards, stables, vaults, manure-heaps, compost-beds, and not, however. in compost, under the supposition that it would hasten fermentation of the mass Davy has refuted this opinion by direct experiments The proper quantity to be used broadcast upon the fields has been decided by experience, as also by chemical science to be from one to one and a half bushel per acre .- Maine Farmer.

By tradition we understand that the establishment of fairs in Portsmouth, was recommended to the people of that town by Geo. Fox the founder of the society of Quakers, and by them adopted. In October 1707, the town petitioned the Assembly to repeal the act establishing the fairs as above which was granted. The Assembly met again at Newport on the 25.h of February 1706-7 having been especially called by the Gov's warrant in consequence of an expected invasion by he French and Indians.

Rumors were spread abroad throughout the Colonies, that the French and Indians were making great preparations for a decent on some part of New England, which was the occasion of the Assembly being called. How far the alarm was justified by he facts is not easy at this time to conjec are, but where a panic is once started it gathers speed and strength as it runs, and n this case the whole country was under the greatest apprehension and alarm. In the year 1707 the town of Newport assed an act requiring the owners of from lots from the pound, at the head of Broad street, to Samuel Hookeys, which was where Stevens' wharf now is, or thereabouts, to be paved six feet wide on each side of the way, under the direction of the surveyors of highways. The act states that the town was compact within the above

We knew of nothing in which there is more of what may be set down as shockingly bad in the way of taste, than the usual mode of expressing she feelings of the living towards the departed, as est up on the grave stones that mark the spain consecrated to the dead. But secently we were in the ware room of a marble worker in New York, and there we saw quite a number of tombatones, purposed wut to order. In a row of five for young children, four had the same priected line beneath the name and time of the decease of the little one, and the fifth had a line that was saily out of place, while the whole five heal, at the heat of the eigen, actif imitation of a receiped hanging frem a broken age and fell there, perhaps forgetter, by one who mer dane since taken another sife; but there it sands with its bisome praise, while the grave that was intended to cover is now, probably, ever green with tanger! grave, neglected and forgetten.

The Properioder of this PUTASH has for many years seen the necessity of having some reliable standard for the strength of Potash. The adulteration has become so general, that it has, necesthasianding its rainable properties, gone nearly out of use. The properiod has taken the responsibility of subact froing his mane in every package, and warrants the strength to be uniform, and when used always producing the assemble

The Confidence of the probasion and the people."

Dyaphreal A.—Indicastion.

From Dr. Henry J. Knos, of St. Louis.

"The Pills you were kind enough to send me have been all used in my practice, and have satisfied me that they arrively an extraordinary medicine. So peculiarly are they shapted to the discouse of the human system, that they seem to work upon them alone. I have cured some cases of dyapersis and indigestion with them, which had resided the other rometies we commonly use. Indeed I have experimentally found them to be effectual in almost all the complaints for which your recommend them."

Aver's Cherry Pectoral

Has long been manufactured by a practical chemist, and every ounce of it under his own eye, with invariable seen racy and ears. It is sealed and protected by law from counterfeits, and coursequently can be relied on as gentline, without adulteration. It supplies the surest remedy the world has ever known for the cure of all pulmonary complaints; for Couuna, Courst, Hornersens, Astima, Coort, Wincortes Couuna, Courst, Hornersens, Astima, Coort, Wincortes Couuna, Courst, Hornersens, Astima design of the disease. As time makes these facts wider and belief known, this medicine has gradually become the best reliance of the afflicted, from the log cabin of the American possant to the palaces of Europeau kings. Throughout this entire country, in every state and city, and indeed a most every hamlet it contains, Chieray Percolai is known as the bost of all remedies for diseases of the throat and brags. In many foreign countries it is extensively used by their most intelligent physicians. If there is any dependence on what men of every station certify it has done for them; if we can frust our own senses when we see the dangerons affections of the lungs yield to it; if we can depend on the assurance of intelligent physicians, whose busines is to know; in short, if there is any rellance upon any thing, then is it brefutably proven that this medicine decourse the class of diseases it is designed for, beyond any and all other remedies known to mankind. Nothing but its Interinsic virtues, and the unmistakable benefit conference of the sensers.
